Hoosic Valley H.S. Senior wins Community Resource's MoneyRules College Scholarship

(Latham) Community Resource Federal Credit Union awarded its $1,000 MoneyRules College Scholarship to Matthew Connors of Melrose, New York. Matt currently attends Hoosic Valley Senior High School. He will major in Broadcast Communications at Hudson Valley Community College's New School of Radio and Television.

"This scholarship will help me reach my goal of one day being a sports broadcaster," said Matt. Michael Jordan's book, "I Can't Accept Not Trying: Michael Jordan on the Pursuit of Excellence", has inspired Matt to work hard in school to achieve his dreams.

MoneyRules is a financial program designed for teenagers, which allows them access to financial products under their parents' guidance so they're capable of handling their own finances when they leave home for school or work. The MoneyRules College Scholarship is a one-time award given to the MoneyRules member and high school senior with the greatest financial need.

Community Resource Federal Credit Union is the tenth largest credit union in the capital district with 6,000 members and $65 million in assets. Community Resource is a community credit union serving those that live, work, worship, or attend school in Albany County and their families.
